New York, March 29-The New York Central offices here issued a statement this afternoon with the following explanation of the Amherst wreck:

Reports indicate that the engineer of the first section of train No. 86 received a caution signal. He proceeded under caution to the home papermen at the scene showed that signal and stopped his train.

A flagman started back immediately, but before he reached the proper distance the second section of train No. 86 came along with the engine working steam. It appears that the engineer of the second section of No. 86 disregarded signals.

The engine of the second No. 86 ran into the steel coach on the rear of the first section of No. 86 and all the injured and fatalities were confined to passengers in this coach, with the exception of a porter and mail clerk who were in the club car immediately ahead.

TRIPLE WRECK ON NEW YORK CENTRAL

Section Prevented the Life Loss From Being Much Greater.

By United Press.

Cleveland, March 29-Physicians report that Mrs. Mary Maiston, of Indianapolis, one of the passengers who escaped unharmed in the Amherst wreck, gave birth to a child in one of the day coaches immediately after the wreck.

Cleveland, March 29-Three crack New York Central trains, one of them the Twentieth Century Limited, crashed together in a thick fog, one mile west of Amherst, early today. At least twenty-one persons were killed outright. Some of the others injured are fatally hurt. A tally made by the undertakers and newstwenty-seven bodies, thirteen of them identified, have been taken from the Railroad officials insisted four hours after the wreck that only fifteen of the dead had been found.

All of the dead and injured were passengers of the first section of eastbound train No. 86.

Indiana people among the identified dead were:

Charles Nelson, 30, Indianapolis. George Ojonta, Indianapolis. Raissam Obah, Indianapolis.

Malcincia Bennoll, Indiana Harbor. Among the injured were: L. S. Griffin, Elkhart, Ind., bruised and suffering from shock.

Adolph Lawrence, Gary, Ind. Twenty-three bodies are in the morgue at Amherst, two at Lorraine and two at Elvria.

When the Twentieth Century Limted, the factest train in the world, smashed into the wreckage passed on its track, the debris was thrown hundreds of feet. Engineer Herbert Heff, of the second section of No. 86 said this afternoon that his train was going fifty miles an hour when it struck the first section. He said the two block signals which he passed is the headquarters for the state department from Liverpool. Accord- prior to the wreck "were clear." He back of the first section, he said. Twenty coaches and baggage cars were overturned and splintered. All the coaches were of steel. Two of the great engines furned over. The boiler of section two engine exploded and the water quenched a fire which started in the telescoped open day coach of the first section. Two coaches were crumpled into junk. Only three of the eight cars of the Limited remained on the track.

Both sections of No. 86 were bound from Chicago to Pittsburg. The crumpled day coach of the first section of No. 86 was the death car. The engine of the second division of No. 86 plowed through the buffet car, day coach and part of a sleeper on the rear of the first section.

Survivors told harrowing stories of suffering. Frank Provost, New York salesman, told of hearing cries, groans and screams and of one man praying aloud. Legs and arms of victims were picked up and carried about, he said. Parts of bodies of a woman and a man were found on the pilot of the second section en-

W. B. Bradley said:

"A more hideous wreck could scarcely be imagined. Up above the engine of second division No. 86 mixed with wreckage were the mangled bodies of dead and injured for the most part unclothed."

"OLD KENTUCKY" IS PERFECT

Its Sweet, Juicy Flavor Is Wholesome, Satisfying and Lasting

THE TASTIEST OF CHEWS

In order to really enjoy tobacco you want to taste the flavor. There is only one way you can do this and that is by chewing it. And the most wholesome and most satisfying form of chew ever invented is high-grade pressed plug, like Old Kentucky.

A fruity-sweet chew of Old Kentucky has more satisfaction in it than a whole plug of ordinary tobacco.

Take choice Burley leaf-sunripened-mellow and lusciouspress it into golden-brown plugs by the most modern methods, without allowing a particle of the natural juice to escape—and there you have Old Kentucky, the perfect chew.

There's no other plug tobacco made that has the delicious, appetizing, wholesome flavor of Old Kentucky.

Your dealer has Old Kentucky in 10c plugs. Get a plug today.

Here are Suits at $19.75 Possessing an Unusual Amount of Style and Value

This is going to be a rather unusual season—several reasons will make it so. The manufacturers are making serious complaint that they cannot get cloths to mak up the garments and the scarcity of dyes has increased the cost of fabrics as well, making it difficult to secure fabrics of certain colors. In view of these conditions—these suits at $19.75 ought to be very interesting to any woman who has set a price of $19.75 to $22.50 for her spring suit.

One model made of taffeta silk, has the new ripple cape collar coat with three silk frogs on the front semi-fitted, correct length; the skirt is made along the new lines-hangs gracefully.

Other suits at $19.75 are made of serge, gabardines, shepherd checks-in fact, checks of various sizes-and every one of them in a striking, stunning style.

Other suits at $10.00, $12.50, $15.00 up to $40.00.

A Dressy Spring Dress at $15.00

Quite a number of women feel they would like to have at least one of their spring dresses made in a style that will be dressy as well as adaptable for use for street wear. So this dress made of sheer silk crepe and crepe meteor, trimmed with effective hand embroidering in one of the best styles of the season will surely appeal to you. Other dresses of silks and other fabrics, $10.00 to $30.00.

For Cool Evenings—A Spring Coat

This is the time of the year when one must be prepared for sudden changes in weather, so a light weight coat is really necessary. When you can buy a spring coat of the kind we're selling for $12.50 and which is made along the new lines for this season, of a material that will give excellent service, we believe you ought to see these coats real early and make selection while so good a value can be had. Other coats from $4.95 to $25.00.

The New Waists for Spring-Dozens Upon Dozens of Them

We've selected three models -can't say which of the three is the prettiest-you will like them all.

Crepe De Chine Waists $1.95

A crepe de chine waist at $2.35 would be considered a good value 'most any timeright now while silks are advancing in price this is a very unusual value. Cotors are light blue, maize, flesh and white; has the new collar and large pearl buttons.

Lacey Waists at $3.95 Made of Radium laces over chiffon or embroidered netssome trimmed with _delicate shades of satin to help produce a pretty effect. Suitable as a dressy waist or for street wear.

Waists of Georgette Crepe $5.95

These waists are made with the new convertible collar, which helps make a pretty frame for the throat and face. You will like the style—you will like the way the buttons are arranged and, too, the odd pockets.

Week End Specials in Millinery Trimmed Hats $1.95, $2.95, $3.95 and $4.95

ADDITIONAL SUM OFFERED FOR ARREST OF MURDERERS

Red Men's Lodge at Bartlettsville Post Reward of $50 for Capture of Men Who Killed Anderson.

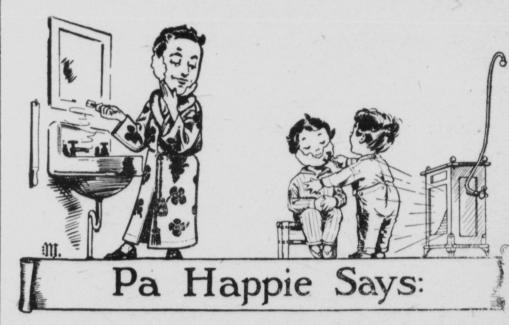

Increased interest in the effort to apprehend the murder or murderers who killed Ora Anderson, at his home west of Bartlettsville, Lawrence county, March 10, has been aroused by the announcement that the Vaudawas Tribe of I. O. R. M., there, will give a reward of $50 for the arrest of the guilty parties. The Lawrence county commissioners have already offered $500 reward and later the Odd Fellows at Harrodsburg posted announcement of a reward of $100. The latest offer brings the total up

The people of the community are greatly excited over the brutal murder of Anderson and the assault on Marion Cracaft, also of the same neighborhood, on the night before Anderson met his fate. They are insistent that the guilty parties shall be brought to justice.

That the party or the gang of men doing the work are still active is indicated by a report brought to Bedford by Marshall Stewart, who lives one and one-half miles east of Guthrie. He says he was awakened during the early part of the night and on going to the door saw someone run across the porch. He could hear someone prowling about the barn but did not venture out of the house. He secured an automatic revolver and spent the remainder of the night in the front room adjoining the porch watching for the return of the intruders. As they did not appear again he believes they were frightened away. He says he would not leave the house to telephone for assistance for fear that the intruders might burn now point to a mark of twenty-four fish within the streams. his house or injure members of his family. Make Your Savings Earn Money

The Cooperative Building and Loan Association will start Series L Monday, April 3, giving citizens of Seymour another opportunity to place their savings each week where the money will earn steady and sure dividends.

Last year the Cooperative earned over 7 per cent. for its stockholders, and every member, whether a borrower or investor shared in the earnings just in proportion to the amount of stock held.

By saving 25 cents per week for a little over six years the payments made and the earnings amount to $100.00 when the stock matures. If for any reason it is impossible to continue the payments, the stock may be withdrawn at any time and the stockholder receives all the earnings up to the time of withdrawal.

There is no safer investment. There is no better plan to have your weekly savings earn money for you. There is no easier way to secure a home or accumulate a sum of money, than by the building and loan plan.

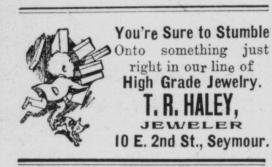

See the Secretary Thos. J. Clark and take stock in the new Series L.

SOLDIERS HURT IN WRECK

Accident on Mexican Railroad Gives Trains to Carry His Army-Believe Chase Will Be Long One.

Field Headquarters, near Casas Grandes (by wireless to Columbus, N. M.), March 29.-Preparations were advanced for quick work in moving after Villa and his bandits. Men selected for their ability as riders and their physical ability to withstand the hardships of a long campaign, have been organized into a fiying cavalry column somewhere south of Namquipa, ready to dash at a moment's notice in pursuit of Villa.

The whereabouts of Villa himself is unknown to the American army at this time, but headquarters here are not often kept informed of all movements until considerable time has elapsed because of the absence of wire communication.

Autos and transport mules have eral days to the new advance base. The mules are to be used to take food into the mountains.

San Antonio, Tex., March 29.-Confirmation of reports that General Pershing already has been using a railroad for transportation of troops was obtained by General Funston from what was said to be an unofficial source.

This information included a report of the overturning of two cars and the injuring of ten troopers of the Tenth the men were reported seriously injured.

The accident occurred while the cars were being taken over a temporary track that had been built around the Cumbre tunnel south of Casas Grandes. One of the rails gave way and the cars rolled down an embank-

No reports from General Pershing GIRL ADMITS BEING FIREBUG were received, but his silence caused no uneasiness at headquarters, where is Being Held in Apartment House the chief concern continued to be the problem of getting supplies into Mex-Ico without a railroad.

Advices from Washington that the state department had prepared a memorandum urging Carranza to decide the question of using the railroad without waiting for the ratification of the protocal revived the hope that perhaps by Thursday the stores held at El Paso may be forwarded to some field depot more accessible to the troops now operating almost 200 miles from the boundary line.

Openly expressed pessimism as to an early capture of Villa now is frequently heard. Unless checked by the forces of the de facto government, or unless he himself decides to turn and fight, there appeared no reason why the chase should cease until Villa had led the Americans through twisting mountain trails and over waterless wastes for another 300 miles or more.

DR. WAITE SAYS OTHER SELF KILLED PECKS

Tells Strange Story of Dual to Wash obtained. Personality.

New York, March 29.—District Attorney Swann and members of his staff and detectives went to the home of Eugene Oliver Kane, an embalmer been going forward from here for sev- at 427 West Fifty-seventh street to arrest Kane on a charge of having accepted from Dr. Arthur Waite a week ago $9,000 in cash to swear in case of Dr. Waite's arrest and trial for the murder of John E. Peck, that Kane, who prepared the body of Mr. Peck for burial, in Dr. Waite's apartportion of the Mexican Northwestern ments, had used arsenic in the embalming fluid.

It is against the law to use arsenic in an embalming fluid. The formula found contained no arsenic.

Statements indicating that he believed he was possessed of a dual personality, that "the little bad man cavalry and several horses. Three of from Egypt," had impelled him to murder John E. Peck of Grand Rapids, his wealthy father-in-law, and Mrs. Peck, were made by Dr. Arthur Warren Waite to District Attorney Edward Swann and a detective.

According to Detective Schindler, Waite told him he administered live bacilli of various diseases to Mrs. Peck, but they did not act as quickly It was not believed at headquarters as expected. He said also, the detec- chantman Englishman had been torrailroad prior to receipt of permission Peck, but when the results appeared dent emphasized, however, the imto his father-in-law.

Autopsies on the body of Peck disclosed quantities of arsenic. Mrs. Peck's body was cremated.

Diplomatic Relations With Germany May Be Severed If It Is Shown That Berlin's Promises Are to Be Flagrantly Violated.

Washington, March 29.—President Wilson, following the cabinet meeting, took the first steps toward bringing the present submarine controversy to the attention of Germany. He desired that Ambassador Gerard at Berlin unofficially bring the cases of the Sussex and the Englishman to the notice of the German foreign office and report to Washington such facts as can be

The president's instruction to Ambassador Gerard are essentially different from instructions which heretofore have initiaaed the long drawn out diplomatic exchange between the United States and Germany. There is no occasion in this case for the German government to discuss the question of the sinking of the Sussex and the Englishman, it is explained, for the president has purposely refrained from making official representations to Berlin. He simply desires that Mr. Gerard cable to Washington any pertinent facts which may be gathered.

When asked why the United States departed from the course heretofore followed of officially asking for Germany's explanation, officers of the state department explained that the submarine issue has now reached a stage where explanations or excuses are of minor importance.

The submarine question was discussed in detail at the cabinet meeting. The president stated that he saw no use for continuing diplomatic negotiations if the promises already made by Germany were to be flagrantly violated. All evidence which the state department had sent to the White House pointed to the fact that both the liner Susses and British merpossible irrefutable proof before taking action

One cabinet member said that he was divulging no secrets in stating that the president's advisers unanimouslyy concur in the determination to discontinue diplomatic negotiations at | pany once if it is shown that Germany intends to pursue her submarine warfare in violation of her pledge to the United States.

How conclusive must the proof be before the United States is justified in taking action?

How should this government receive expressions of disavowal, and regret from Germany, provided these are backed by definite promises for the future?

The president is of the opinion that a renewal of disavowals would mean man entered her room through an no more than they have meant in the

The president has promised leaders of the senate and house that he will consult them before taking action leading to a severance of diplomatic relations. The report that the British steamer Manchester Engineer had been torpedoed without warning by a German submarine, and the lives of ardy, did not encourage official circles to believe that Germany is ready to make an effort to keep faith.

Both British and French governments have officially stated that the Sussex was torpedoed, and it is naturally assumed that there must be irrefutable evidence to support these unqualified assertions. Affidavits from American passengers contain the sworn statements that they saw the wake of the torpedo.

Both Ambassador Page and Ambassador Sharp have made it clear to the state department that every sign points to a torpedo.

Dr. Finley has taken the stand from the beginning of the agitation that strictly military drill should be kept out of the schools, favoring, however, physical and civic training for all school children and compulsory military training in summer camps for all boys of the state and this will be the general effect of the amendments to be introduced.

BRITAIN REPLIES TO U. S. SEIZURE PROTEST

Taken Securities Declares Were German.

London, March 29 .- The British government has formally answered the American protest against the seizure in transit of securities from Holland to New York on the ground that they emanated from Germany. The securities were taken from Dutch steamships in the same manner as considerable quantities of merchandise, regarding which the consignees have asked the Washington government to protest

The British reply states that the seizures were made in accordance with the general policy to strike at German credit, and declares that these securities were German, not American, and were sent to America for the purpose of establishing German credit. Therefore, they can be stopped in the same manner as merchandise. In other words. England refuses most of the American contentions.

Although it is not mentioned in the note, the British have support for their contentions in an interrupted wireless message from a firm of Frankfort bankers to their New York agents, urging them to go to Washington to protest against the seizures.

San Francisco.-Hidden gold in Patagonia, to which Captain Thomas Owens was to lead the band of adventurers DEPORT STRIKE LEADERS on the schooner Academy, was a myth, according to four members of the ill fated expedition, who returned to San Francisco on the Pacific mailer Newport from Balboa. They said that Owens' real name is John Owen Whoffer, that he was a poor navigator and that for three and a half months they sailed aimlessly around the Pacific until they finally reached the Colombian

The Academy left San Francisco June 21 of last year bound for Patagonia, where Captain Owens said there was gold that rivaled the wealth of the Incas. With him were several Californians who had invested in the enterprise with hopes of great gain.

Eugene L. Haile, H. E. Schuck, William Simms and H. F. Radke, who came home on the Newport, were authority for the statement that Owens was incompetent, that he tried to turn the Academy back to San Francisco and that he proposed to sell the schooner in Callao and buy a tug to take them to the fabulous mines.

GERMANS MEET HEAVY REPULSE

Three Assaults Hurled Back by French Fire.

BRITISH LINES ARE ACTIVE

Berlin and Vienna Reiterate Statements That New Russian Offensive In East Has Made No Gains, But Met Heavy Losses.

London, March 29.-After almost a week of bombardment the Germans made an infantry attack on the French front between Malancourt and Haucourt, to the west of Le Mort Homme. The attack, made after the manner of other German assaults, in waves, was repulsed, wave after wave of German infantry being driven back with heavy losses by the French artillery fire curtain and infantry fire.

The attack is regarded as an effort by the Germans to complete the gain made when they took the Malancourt-Avocourt wood, to the southwest of the positions attacked. Could the French be forced back from the Malancourt-Haucourt positions toward Esnes, the German extreme right would be in a position to bring pressure against the French flank on the western bank of the Meuse, including the positions on Le Mort Homme.

After a night of comparative quiet to the east of the river, the Germans resumed a bombardment of the French second lines. No infantry attack on this side of the river has yet been made.

During the night French detachments made a surprise attack on a German position in the Parroy forest, in Lorraine, destroying the position and taking prisoners the occupants not killed in the attack.

The explosion of British mines in the region south of St. Eloi has caused severe hand to hand encounters between grenade throwers.

Both Berlin and Vienna reiterated previous statements insisting that the new Russian offensive in the east has thus far netted the attackers no gains. but cost them enormous losses. Violent fighting appears to be still in progress, however, in the region of Postavy, between Dwink and Wilna, where the Russians are trying to pierce Field Marshal von Hindenburg's line and force a general withdrawal of little oatmeal. Her daughter-in-law the entire northern line to the south

The Austrian war office is equally confident with regard to the situation on the southwestern front, where Czernowitz, the Bukowina capital, has for months, been the much coveted objective of the Russians, while fighting has also been lively on the Galician front. During the last week, Vienna claims there have been no Russian attacks in the southwest.

The octuple conference in progress in Paris is regarded here as the most momentous symbol in the history of the war. It is understood as proclaiming to the central powers and their allies that Britain, France, Russia, Italy, Belgium, Serbia and Portugal stand in an unbroken and unbreakable formation against what they deem to be a menace to their well being.

British Officials Remove Men Who Sought to Foment Strikes.

London, March 29.-Six leaders of a body calling itself the Clyde Workers' committee, which has been attempting to foment strikes among munition workers on the Clyde, have been removed from the district by the military authorities.

Dr. Christopher Addison, parliamentary undersecretary for munitions, in making this announcement in the house of commons, added that the committee in particular had attempted to stop work in factories where large guns are made, and had succeeded in five cases. The strikes bore no relation to industrial conditions, he said, and were denounced by trade union leaders.

ATTRIBUTES HER LONG LIFE TO SWEET DIET

Woman, Ninety, Begins Meals With Dessert.

Melrose, Mass. - Mrs. James Rodie celebrated her ninetieth birthday anniversary several days ago. She is in excellent health and attributes this fact to an astonishing diet that consists largely of chocolates, puddings, fruits and other sweetmeats.

Mrs. Rodie was personally conducting the frying of a batch of five dozen doughnuts when the reporter called at her home. While in conversation with him she ate several hot doughnuts, and upon being asked if she was troubled with indigestion she replied that she had relished dainty foods more in her old age than when she was young.

She is known as the "spry old lady of Melrose," and every morning during good weather she takes a walk of two miles or more just for a "little exercise," as she terms it. Mrs. Rodie is a zealous worker and exhibited for the reporter's benefit over twenty-five fancy woven knit table pieces that she had completed since last fall. She also assists her daughter-in-law, with whom she lives, in the general housework, and twice a week she dusts all the furniture in the house.

Mrs. Rodie has an excellent appetite. Every morning she has cake and coffee for breakfast, sometimes eating a told the reporter that Mrs. Rodie always eats her dessert first and that if she is hungry she will eat a little meat. She eats the average a box of chocolates a week.

Mrs. Rodie is a fresh air enthusiast and has not slept in a room with any of the windows closed for over sixty years. She is also a firm follower of the "early to bed and early to rise" rule, for she retires every evening at 7 o'clock and is up bright and early at 6 o'clock the next morning.

CHAPTER X.

A Prince's Heart at Stake.

HE prince sat down, pulled the rug up to his chin and stared out at the great, heaving billows. Suddenly remembering another injury, he felt once more of the back of his head.

"By jove!" he exclaimed. "There is a lump there."

"I can't hear you," she said, allowing the magazine to drop into her lap, but keeping her place carefully marked with one of her fingers.

"I can hear you perfectly," he said. "It's the way the wind blows," she explained.

"Easily remedied," said he. "I'll move into Mrs. Gaston's chair if you think it will help any."

"Do!" she said promptly. "You will not disturb me in the least-unless you talk." She resumed her reading, half a page above the finger tip.

He moved over and arranged himself comfortably, snugly in Mrs. Gaston's chair. Their elbows almost met. He was prepared to be very patient. For a long time she continued to read, her warm, rosy cheek half averted, her eyes applied to their task with irritating constancy. He did not despair. Some wise person once had told him that it was only necessary to give a woman sufficient time and she would be the one to de-

A few passengers possessed of proud sea legs staggered past the snug couple on their ridiculous rounds of the ship. If they thought of Miss Guile and R. Schmidt at all it was with the scorn that is usually devoted to youth at its very best. There could be no doubt in the passing mind that these two were sweethearts who managed to thrive on the smallest of com-

At last his patience was rewarded. She lowered the magazine and stifled a yawn-but not a real one. "Have you read it?" she inquired composedly. "A part of it," he said. "Over your shoulder."

"Is that considered polite in Vienna?"

"If you only knew what a bump I've got on the back of my head you wouldn't be so ungracious," he said. "I couldn't possibly know, could I?" He leaned forward and indicated the spot on the back of his head, first removing his cap. She laughed nervously, and then gently rubbed her fingers over the thick hair. "There is a dreadful lump!" she exclaimed. "Oh, how sorry I am. Dodo you feel faint or-or-I mean, is it very painful?"

"Not now," he replied, replacing his cap and favoring her with his most engaging smile.

She smiled in response, betraying not the slightest sign of embarrassment.

"Am I to regard you as a hero?"

"If you will be so kind, please." She laughed outright at this. "I think I rather like you, Mr. Schmidt," she said, with unexpected candor. "Oh, I fancy I'm not at all bad," said he, after a momentary stare of astonishment. "I am especially good in rough weather," he went on, trying to forget that he was a prince of the royal blood, a rather difficult matter when one stops to consider he was not in the habit of hearing people say that they rather liked him.

"Do your friends come from Vienna?" she inquired abruptly.

"Yes," he said, and then saved his face as usual by adding under his breath, "but they don't live there." It was not in him to lie outright; hence the handy way of appeasing his conscience.

"They are very interesting looking men, especially the younger. I cannot remember when I have seen a more attractive man."

"He is a splendid chap," exclaimed Robin, with genuine enthusiasm. "I am very fond of Dank."

She was silent for a moment. Something had failed, and she was rather glad of it.

"Do you like New York?" she asked. "Immensely. I met a great many delightful people there, Miss Guile. You say you do not know the Blithers family? Mr. Blithers is a rare old bird."

"Isn't there some talk of his daughter being engaged to the Prince of Graustark?"

He felt that his ears were red. "The newspapers hinted at something of the sort, I believe." He was suddenly possessed by the curious notion that he was being "pumped" by his fair companion. Indeed, a certain insistent note had crept into her voice, and her eyes were searching his with an intentness that had not appeared in them until now.

"Have you seen him?"

"The prince?" "Yes. What is he like?"

"I've seen pictures of him," he equivocated. "Rather nice looking, I should say."

"Of course he is like all foreign noblemen and will leap at the Blithers millions if he gets the chance. I sometimes feel sorry for the poor wretches." There was more scorn than pity in the way she said it, however, and her velvety eyes were suddenly hard and uncompromising.

He longed to defend himself, in the third person, but could not do so for very strong and obvious reasons. He allowed himself the privilege, however, of declaring that foreign noblemen are not always as black as they are painted. And then, for a very excellent reason, he contrived to change the subject by asking where she was going on the continent.

"I may go to Vienna," she said, with a smile that served to puzzle rather than to delight him. He was more than ever convinced that she was playing with him. "But pray do not look so gloomy, Mr. Schmidt, I shall not make any demands upon your time while I am there. You may"-

"I am quite sure of that," he interrupted, with his ready smile. "You see, I am a person of no consequence in Vienna, while you- Ah, well, as an American girl you will be hobnobbing with the nobility while the humble Schmidt sits afar off and marvels at the kindness of a fate that befell him in the middle of the Atlantic ocean, and yet curses the fate that makes him unworthy of the slightest notice from the aforesaid American girl. For, I daresay, Miss Guile, you, like all American girls, are ready to leap at titles."

"That really isn't fair, Mr. Schmidt," she protested, flushing. "Why should you and I quarrel over a condition that cannot apply to either of us? You are not a nobleman, and I am not a title seeking American girl. So, why all this beautiful irony?"

"It only remains for me to humbly beg your pardon and to add that if you come to Vienna my every waking hour shall be devoted to the pleasure

"I am sorry I mentioned it, Mr. Schmidt," she interrupted coldly. "You may rest easy, for I shall not keep you awake for a single hour. Besides. I may not go to Vienna at all."

"I am sure you would like Vienna," he said, somewhat chilled by her

"I have been there with my parents, but it was a long time ago. I once saw the emperor, and often have I seen the wonderful Prince Lichtenstein.'

"Have you traveled extensively in Europe?"

She was smiling once more. "I don't know what you would consider extensively," she said. "I was educated in Paris, I have spent innumerable winters in Rome and quite as many summers in Scotland, England, Switzerland, Germ"- out enthusiastically. To his amazement a startled expression leaped into her eyes. "You are traveling under an assumed name." She remained perfectly still, watching him with an anxious smile on her lips. "You are no other than Miss Baedeker, the well known authoress." It seemed to him that she breathed deeply. "In that case my pseudonym should be Guide, not Guile," she cried merrily. The dimples played in her cheeks, and her eyes were dancing. "B. stands for Baedeker, I'm sure. Baedeker Guide. If the B. isn't for Baedeker, what is it for?" "Are you asking what the B really stands for, Mr. Schmidt?"

"In a roundabout way, Miss Guile," he admitted.

"My name is Bedelia," she said, with absolute sincerity. "Me mither is Irish, d'ye see?' "By jove, it's worth a lot of trouble to get you to smile like that," he cried admiringly. "It is the first really honest smile you've displayed. If you knew how it improves you you'd be doing it all of the time."

At this juncture the miserable Hobbs hove into sight, not figuratively, but literally. He came surging across the deck in a mad dash from one haven to another, or, more accurately, from post to post.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he gasped, finally steadying himself on wide spread legs. "There is a wireless for Mr. Totten, sir, but when I took it to 'im he said to fetch it to you, being unable to hold up 'is head."

"He knows who it is from, Hobbs, so you needn't worry. It is from home, if it will interest you, Hobbs." "Thank you, sir; it does interest me. I thought it might be from Mr.

Blithers.' Robin's scowl sent him scuttling away a great deal more rigidly than when he came. "Idiot!" muttered the young man, still scowling. There was silence between the two for a few seconds. Then she spoke disinterestedly:

"Is it from the Mr. Blithers who has the millions and the daughter who wants to marry a prince?"

"Merely a business transaction, Miss Guile," he said absently. He was thinking of Romano's message. "So it would appear."

"I beg pardon? I was-er-thinking"

"It was of no consequence, Mr. Schmidt." she said airily.

He picked up the thread once more. "As a matter of fact, I've heard it said that Miss Blithers refused to marry the prince."

"Is it possible?" with fine irony. Is he such a dreadful person as all that?"

quite a shock. "Well, what do you think of it?" demanded the prince, pointing to the ary temperature.

"Of all the confounded impudence"- began the count healthily, and then uttered a mighty groan of impotence. It was clear that he could not do justice to the occasion.

Robin picked up the Marconigram and calmly smoothed out the crinkles. Then he read it aloud, very slowly and with extreme disgust in his fine young face. It was a lengthy communication from Baron Romano, the prime minister in Edelweiss:

Fire Districts.

Seymour's fire map shows that the five wards are divided into twentytwo fire districts and when an alarm is given the fire bell gives the number of the ward in taps, then after a pause the district number is sounded. When calling the telephone exchange "I'm sure I don't know," murmur- for a fire alarm always give the ed Robin uncomfortably. "He may street and number where the fire is located. See your dentist twice yearly. Use Senreco twice daily.

Go now to a mirror and examine your mouth? Do your gums look "rinsed out," shrunken? Do you see a jagged appearance in the gum-line?

If so, see your dentist. He will tell you that you have pyorrhea, and that to save your teeth you will have to fight this dread disease

From pyorrhea come by far the greater part of all tooth troubles. Unless treated and checked, it will result not only in the shrinking and malformation of your gums and of the bony structure into which your teeth are set, but in the loss of the teeth themselves.

A specific for pyorrhea has been discovered recently by dental science, and is now offered for daily treatment in Senreco Tooth Paste. Senreco combats the germ of the disease. Its regular use insures your teeth against the attack or further progress of pyorrhea.

But Senreco does more. It cleanses the teeth delightfully. It gives them a whiteness distinctive of Senreco alone. Its flavor is entirely pleasing, and it leaves in the mouth a wonderful sense of coolness and wholesomeness.

Start the Senreco treatment before pyorrhea grips you for good. Details in folder with every tube. A two-ounce tube for 25c is sufficient for 6 weeks' daily treatment. Get Senreco of your druggist today; or send 4c in stamps or coin for sample tube and folder. Address The Sentanel Remedies Company 503 Union Central Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Farmers' Sons. St. Louis.-Fifty boys in and near Brighton, Ill., will have an opportunity given by the First National bank of Brighton to earn some money easily and at the same time learn something of stock breeding. Thomas Chamberlain, cashier, will go to Wisconsin and buy fifty Holstein heifers. They will be taken to Brighton and distributed among the boys. their parents going security for the animals. The heifers will be bred, and the next fall they will be sold at auc-

All the money in excess of $40 that the animals bring will be given to the boys who have cared for them. The bank figures that this will also have a good effect on the grade of milk cows in that neighborhood.

VALUE OF BABY IS $90.

"Aged Person Becomes a Negative Quantity," Declares Professor.

What is a baby worth? Professor Irving T. Fisher of Yale, urging the adoption of a bill for compulsory social insurance for workmen, told the committee on social welfare at the statehouse, in Boston, that he estimated the value of a baby to be $90. "And I estimate the value of an adult to be $4,000," said the professor. "The value of an aged person, by computations under the proposed system, becomes a negative quantity. "The proposed bill will bring preventive medicine into every home. Last year there were 630,000 unnecessary deaths in the United States. The bill also will distribute the enormops burden of sickness so it will not entirely overwhelm a worker when it comes."
